What to Expect at the Dentist

Your dentist offices will be taking extra measures to keep you and your family safe. This may include pre-appointment questions to gauge potential exposure to COVID-19, temperature checks, changes to check-in and waiting room procedures, extra cleaning and sanitation throughout the office and additional personal protective equipment for patients and staff, including face shields, face masks and gowns.

Your dentist can explain when they will be reopening and the specific steps they are taking to keep you safe. This can also help you decide whether now is the right time for care.

What to expect at dentist appointments?
The next time you go to the dentist, things may be a bit different because of COVID-19. Here are some of the changes you might see.

Prior to your appointment:
• To allow social distancing between patients, you may have fewer appointment time options or need to wait longer to get an appointment.
• You may be asked screening questions to make sure you do not have COVID-19 symptoms or have not been in contact with anyone with COVID-19.

Day of appointment:
• You may be asked similar screening questions about having COVID-19 symptoms.
• You may be asked to take your temperature when you come into the building.
• You may be asked to wait in your car until you get a call or text to come in.
• Waiting rooms may have fewer chairs and there won’t be magazines or toys.
• Many offices will ask you to wear a mask. If you have one, you may want to bring it with you.
• You may be asked to wash your hands or use sanitizer before going to the treatment room.

During your appointment:
• Staff may be wearing face shields and head coverings.
• Treatment may be modified to reduce the amount of aerosols created.
• You may see additional dividers, such as Plexiglas, at the front desk and throughout the office.
